

BREXIT – A POST-NATIONAL REQUIEM?

GLOBALISATION, SOVEREIGNTY AND THE RE-NATIONALISATION OF POLITICS

Annual Global Studies Lecture Professor Adrian Favell

Does Brexit signal the end of the post-national "dream of the nineties"?

What are we losing with the seemingly inevitable re-nationalisation of the continent and closure of national welfare-states?

This year's Global Studies Lecture by Professor Adrian Favell, University of Leeds, will discuss the direction of politics in Europe, and also argue about how the limitations of EU citizenship and conventional views on immigration point the way towards a more global, decolonial approach to questions of international free movement of persons.

Adrian Favell is Chair in Sociology and Social Theory at the University of Leeds, and an associate of the Centre d'études européennes et de politique comparée (CEE), Sciences Po, Paris. He was a Professor at Aarhus University 2008-2011. He is the author of various works on multiculturalism, migration, cosmopolitanism and cities, including Philosophies of Integration: Immigration and the Idea of Citizenship in France and Britain (1998), Eurostars and Eurocities: Free Movement and Mobility in an Integrating Europe (2008), and a collection of essays, Immigration, Integration and Mobility: New Agendas in Migration Studies (2015). He currently leads the UK ESRC project, Northern Exposure: Race, Nation and Disaffection in "Ordinary" Towns and Cities after Brexit.
