

Trade and Globalization in the Eighteenth Century: Sweden and Denmark

Tuesday 21st May 2019 from 13:15 - 16:00

Location: Building 1461, room 515

Presenters:

Leos Müller (Stockholm University): 'Sweden's first global century: the eighteenth century?'

Anna Knutsson (EUI): 'Contagious Globalisation: what smuggling can teach us about globalization and the small protectionist state in the eighteenth century'

Niels Brimnes (Aarhus University): 'Where did all the wealth come from? Preliminary reflections on the "efflorescent trade" in late 18th-century Denmark'

Organisers:

The seminar is organized as a collaboration between the research program of the Department of History and the research center NAU (Nordic Research at Aarhus University).

All are welcome!

For more information:

Please contact Mary Hilson mary.hilson@cas.au.dk