

DEMOCRACY AND SECURITY IN UNSETTLED TIMES

Not only is the international order dissolving, but within liberal democracies themselves, authoritarian forces are gaining influence. Is the age of democracy and globalization truly coming to an end – and what might follow? How can we create security, both externally and internally, in such an uncertain world?

In this presentation, Dr. Robert Habeck looks beyond Europe's borders to better understand Europe from the outside, developing his own ideas for a democratic approach to security policy.

LECTURE BY

Robert Habeck

Robert Habeck was the German Vice Chancellor and Federal Minister for Economic Affairs and Climate Action (2021-2025) before becoming a senior analyst at the Danish Institute for International Studies.

MORE INFO

This event is organized by the Aarhus University Department of Global Studies.

For more information:

Contact: Raymond Yamamoto

E-mail: raymond.yamamoto@cas.au.dk

Friday
February 27<sup>T</sup>
10:00-11:30
1482-105
Nobelauditorium
Aarhus University

Illustration: Getty Images

